PENDER COUNTY MURDER

We had an article last week criticis ng the Commissioners of Pender county, and the Governor, for not effering a the past week. reward for the arrest of Walker, the murderer of Bell. Mr. Shaw the Chairman of the Board of Commissioners, informs us that it is the duty of the Sheriff to notify the Governor and request a reward to be offered, and not that of the Commissioners of Pender; why Sheriff Patterson has not looked after this matter we know not .-There is one thing we do know, the blood of Bell, the murdered man, cries from the earth for the arrest and punishment of his murderer, and Sberiff Patterson should either do his duty or resign. If he has not the courage to do his duty he should get out of the way and let some one else do it. If he has the courage and refuses to perform it then he should be compelled by the strong arm of the law, Or is it, Sheriff, because Bell was a negro and the murderer a white man? If the latter, it may be that you will see the day when you will want the negro vote of Pender to continue you in office. So, do your duty, tike a man.

The many friends of Judge Buxton all over the state, are looking to him as the next Republican candidate. They claim that Judge Buxton can the Treasury, holds that the appointees carry the state by a larger majority than any other man in the state. In 1872 he was the Republican candidate for Superior Court Judge in a Democratic district of 2,000 majority, notwithstanding that fact Judge Buxton was elected by nearly 1,300 majority. If Judge Buxton should gain at the same rates, all over North Carolina. should be be the Republican candidate for Governor, he would be elected by 28,000 majority. There is no discount on Judge Buxton's popularity. He is one of those men who has been in publie life for many years, whose character is perfectly pure and unspotted. And the Democratic editors and other throwers of filth cannot say aught against him, except that he is a Republican. Should Judge Buxton consent to become the Republican candidate it will be equal to an election, for he will be very sure to carry the state.

Old Aunt Raney Corcoran, who is known to many of our old citizens, claims to be something over a hundred. She is the mother of "old Uncle Billy Corcoran," who died some two years ago. The Wilmington Post has been, is nou and will continue to be, the advocate of hard money in North Carolina.

The army of the Tennessee will mee at Chicago some time in November when Gen. Grant and Gen. Sherman will be present.

The article published in another column from the Concord (N. H.) awares. So they have been a little on Monitor gives the substance of an act their good behavior. recently passed by the legislature of ing bonds or other obligations of any attention of lawyers.

The "party of reform" have no less than three traveling committees on the wing, and others soon to start. There is one in Cincinnati, one in Long Branch, and one in Providence, having each a good time at the expense of the government. One is soon going to Kansas. These committees have large retinues of clerks and attaches and attendants. There never has been any instance of so much Congressional summering at the public expense.

HON. THOS. SETTLE.

We had the pleasure of meeting Judge Thomas Settle a few days ago. He had been on a trip up to Long Branch, Albany, Saratega Springs, Manhattan Beach, Newport and other places of pleasure and amusement. He was looking well and was in very excellent spirits. He was accompanied by Col. Thos. B. Keogh of Greensboro, N. C., who was somewhat under the weather from too much of the water at Long to select any man whom we shall be to that extent that, in 1794, the eleventh Branch.

Among the brilliant fancies of some of the Bourbon newspapers is the at- is a fit exponent of the 110,000 votes or tempt to show that Daniel Webster was a secessionist. It would be quite as sensible to pretend that John C. Calhoun believed in the same construction of the Constitution as George Washington, and Mr. Madison, and Andrew Jackson, or that Voltaire or Bolingbroke were profound believers in the divinity of Christ. Southern politics of the secession school is only an agglomerated mass of sophistries at syllogistic vanities.

The Wilmington Post is proud of its record on hard money; being one of the very earliest advocates of resumption, and in favor of Mr. Sherman's policy of ma. king a poor man's dollar equal in value to a rich man's dollar.

COL. W. J. VANCE.

We had the pleasure while in Washthe most influential Republicans in his state, a newspaper man of very superior abilities, who is exceedingly well posted in politics and whose judgment is perfeetly safe. And he says that Mr. Secretary Sherman will certainly be the nominee of the next Republican National Convention for President, and the nominee of said Convention will unquestionably be the President of the United States from 1881 to 1885. Col. Vance will very likely be in Congress next term. His friends desired him to run in 1878 but he declined. Had he run as the Republican candidate he would most certainly have been elected. His friends have determined to run him next time, whether he consents or not, and his popularity is so great that should he take the field for Congress his election is sure. We have so few reliable, true, unselfish men of real ability in Congress that it will be refreshing to see him there. The whole country will be benefitted by such an acquisition to that body.

NORTH CAROLINA IN 1880. A great deal is being said and much more thought in a quiet way as to what is to occur in North Carolina in 1880. Both parties may be said to be somewhat on their good behavior, under a general demand of the better thinking class of the people, and it is not too much to say that there is a more reasonable temper abroad, which will compel something like decency in the appeal to the people. The political atmosphere is agitated, not indeed in a very violent way, but in a general disposition towards more independence and freedom of thought than heretofore and less of hackneyed sensele Old leaders seem to be by common con sent among both parties waived toward retirement, a new class of names for important offices are being mentioned cliques are being treated with indiffer ence, and something of a new era ap-

It was like as when a cyclone sweeps along, upsetting everything Exactly what had occurred was not plain to the common understanding. The occurrence did, however, spread around among the wise and prophetic cliques an indefinable apprehension that the same sort of an antic might be performed again, and take them un-

The act itself will attract the 5,000 votes, of Robert Vance who only received about 2,500, of Armfield in whose district there was a falling off of about 23,000? What would happen to the future candidate of the Cape Fear district (whoever he may be) if the 7,000 Democratic voters should sullenly stay at home as they did before to the Raleigh gamesters, and not a little so to some people in the provinces

> The outcome of such considerations as these in their effect upon the preliminaries of the canvass will undoubt edly be a considerable change, if not an improvement in the candidates of both parties. The Republicans, we have no doubt, will be especially careful in making up their state and Congressional tickets. For the figure head of the compelled to spend time in defending. If there shall appear one man who shall be stronger than all others, who more which may be given for him, he ought to be selected. The same care ought to be exercised in the whole executive ticket. The same principles of selection should guide the legislative and the county tickets. With such a ticket, and the principles of the great party to which the nation owes its preservation and progress and presperity, and a fair vote and a fair count, we can appeal to the pees best, built up on false postulates and ple in the same confidence with which we have twice gone to triumph.

> The Wilmington Post rejoices over its ecord, having always been in favor of greenbacks; making the honor of a greenback dollar equal to a gold dollar in valwe. Our platform is to make greenbacks, silver and gold equal.

Then in a paragraph or two the Secretary took between the tips of his finpiew out to sea the Tilden electoral commission "grievance." "Why should he complain?" asked Mr. Sherman. "The commission was clearly a Tilden progeny. I was opposed to it. I believed that the President of the Senate had a right to decide by virtue of his position, but Tilden's friends and Senator Conkling and others favored the commission. It was believed that Mr. Tilden was to be benefitted by the commission. To be sure he wasn't, but that's no reason why he and his friends should decry the bridge they expected to cross on." Secretary Sherman certainly comes down to a "substantial basis" in his talk. He speaks so much to the point when he does consent to open his mouth that the people who like plain language will not care how often he resumes,-New York Herald.

HARD MONEY.

The Post has always been in favor of hard money, specie payments and resumption. That has been our policy. We have from the beginning endorsed Mr. Sherman's hard money resumption policy. We have stated time and again that the paper was the organ of the Greenback party, that the Republican party was the only Greenback party in the United States, that they issued the the United States, that they issued the greenbacks, and that they were responsible for the honor and integrity of them. Therefore the policy of the Republican party was to make a greenback dollar worth as much as a gold dellar. That is Mr. Secretary Sherman's policy. It is the policy of the Republican party, and the policy of the Republican party, and the policy of the Wilmington Post. Secretary Sherman's policy. Secretary Sherman's policy. Secretary Sherman's policy. The proceeding, the Attorney General of the State, being satisfied that the demand is a meritorious one, shall institute an the Wilmington Post. Secretary Sherman desires that the dollar of the poor man be worth as much as the dollar of rich man. That accounts for his efforts in behalf of greenbacks. He opposes giving a laboring man a dollar acks that is only worth fifty cents in gold. Every poor laboring man in this country is under everlasting obligations to Hon. John Sherman for his untiring efforts in their behalf and in behalf of honest money.

PROTECTION OF CITIZENS.

SUING A DEFAULTING STA

Among the acts of the last Legislature is one entitled, "An art to protect against other States." The bill involves some very important legal principles, and is likely to be the means creating no little sensation. It is well known that a number of the States; do not pay their bonbed debts. The aggregate of their dishonored paper, including overdue and unpaid interest, is now said to amount to $250,000,000. Some of them make no attempt to protect their credit, treating the holders of their promise to pay as if they had no rights that they, as debtors, were bound to respect. Others plead poverty and offer to compromise with their creditor by giving new promises for such a perntage of their outstanding obligations as they have concluded it will be convenient for them to take care of. In both cases, a lamentable lack of moral and business integrity is manifested.

Much of the indifference to their obligations shown by defaulting and repudiating Commonwealths is, undoubtedly, due to the commonly-entertained belief that they are above the law. An individual who refuses to pay his debts. can be brought into court and compelled to respond according to his means. But a so-called sovereign State, it is popularly supposed, cannot be used.—
It is true that a State is not suable by a citizen, no matter how great or just the the same citizen may be used by the same State if the liability is reversed. This unreasonable distinction did not ticket, the candidate for Governor, we always exist. Under the Constitution must have a man who stands high in as it was first framed States were liable character, who has an unblemished re- to be proceeded against in the Federal cord, who is sound in political principles, and who will bring a personal the Revolutionary way that were pressed strength to the ticket. It will not do against the States frightened the public amendment was adopted, which pro-vides that "The judicial power of the to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of another State, or by citizens or subjects of a foreign State.'

The amendment was intended solely to cut off war claims, the most of which were unreasonable, and no one at the time of its adoption dreamed that States would ever so far lower themselves as to avail themselves of it for the purpose of cheating their creditors. But since States have shown that they capable of that dishonor, some of our best lawyers have been examining the question whether they are not amen able to legal process, the eleventh standing. An affirmative conclusion

States, although not suable by citizens, are, according to the terms of the Constitution, subject to be used in the United States Supreme Court by other States. Such being the case, what is there to prevent States from accepting an assignment in trust of claims against other States belonging to their own citizens, whose interests they are under obligation to protect against outside or ment and collection? Acting upon that hypothesis, some of the citizens of New York, holding the repudiated bonds of other States, had a bill prepared with that view, and submit their own Legislature. The New York Legislature passed the bill almost unanimously, but the Governor of that State, either because of being an ultra State rights Democrat, or as an intimate political friend of Samuel J. Tilleng supposing it would not answer for e to appear attached to a bill authorizing more than half of the Democratic States of the Union to be retained it in his hands until the Legislature had adjourned, and then vetoed and killed it. Relief in that quarter being shut off, the movers in the matter looked about to see if action to the same end could not be had elsewhere The Legislature of New Hampshire was in session, and New Hampshire was known to be a State having no sympa-thy with repudiation, and with a Legis-lature and Executive without fear or favor for repudiators. The consequence was that John F, Hume, formerly editor of the Globe Democrat, of St. Louis and now a resident of New York, ap peared in this city as the representativ of certain State creditors, for the purpose of confering with citizens of this State similarly interested, and also with the leading members of our Legislature. So satisfactory was the result that a bill almost identical with the one that had failed in New York, was introduced under the title above given; the rule forbidding the introduced

Such an action, and possibly several such actions, may soon be looked for.

Attorney General Tappan is not a man to shrink from responsibility. Moreover, it is understood that the Presidential Probabilities. WASHINGTON, July 24, 1879.

Editor Forney's Sunday Chronicle: Under the above title, Mr. Editor, 1 read in some respects a very readable article in your last Sunday's issue of the Chronicle. It occurs to me that this is one of the subjects that should command the attention, most seriously, of all thinking and reasoning Republicans. We have in our party many strong and good men, any one of whom, I doubt not, would make us a good President. That we can elect our candidate is a foregone conclusion, provided we are only true to ourselves and support with a will the one whom fortune shall decide to place as our leader. In handling and talking this question over, all good Republicans should avoid the advancing of any one favorite at the expense of others. Let us settle this question on merit and without any of those family quarrels that too often alienate friends and always place weapons in the hands of our adversaries. As an example in which this unfortunate practice was carried to the greatest extent I will remind you of the outrageous attack of the Republican papers of Cincinnati at the last nominating convention upon Hon. James G. Blaine. exceeding, in fact, anything to be found in the Democratic papers, and of which, I doubt not, they are to-day heartily ashamed. Had Mr. Blaine been selected at that time, how would it have been possible for them to support him? and yet what a loss to our party and what a handle in the hands of our opponents their action would have been. By all means, let us select from the leaders of our party on the strength of merit, and then, when fortune has elected, we can all join hands in one grand and hearty rush that is sure to carry us to victory. I am for John Sherman, because with the firmness of iron and yet with the modesty of a true gentleman, he has for years past, amid greater personal abuse than was probably ever before heared on any one man led in the caped on any one man, led in the nancial issues, until now, thanks to im, it is no longer a question of theory.

member of the House of Kepr tives he made one of the most rable races for the Speakership cord; and at a time when souther bearance was hovering over Co overawing the weak and timid, he was among the most outspoken on the side of principle; and in a personal attempt of southern manners against him, and while he was making a speech on the floor of the House of Representatives, he threw a box of old-fashioned wafers in the rowdy's face and quietly proceeded with his speech. That he has not only been true to the principles of Republicanism, but has been one of its advanced lights, one has only to look at his public record, from his aid and support of all that was needed during the war down to the present day, and there is not one cloud to be found upon it. In public business matters he is untiring, believing that "to attend to all legitimate business at the time the qusiness calls is the duty of the officer." It is a very common report that he has no personal magnetism, and therefore no enthusiasm could be raised for him. enthusiasm could be raised for him Mr. Editor, do you remember the re-port of the absolute disrespect that was shown him while delivering a speech at Cleveland, prior to accomplished re-sumption? Contrast that with that of his recent visit to Ohio, that was an ovation by the people the entire time that he was in the state. One of the political humbug charges against him is that he is owned by the national banks, and yet by his acts in forcing the use of the four per cent. bonds he has caused a loss to these same national banks of millions of dollars in the shape of interest money, and a corresponding saving to the government. These are facts that all the demagogery in the country cannot hide from the people. In conclusion, Mr. Editor, let me say to you, and through you to your readers, that in Secretary Sherman we have a man of the people; being in every re-spect a self-made man, a man of per-sonal nerve, as witnessed by his treat-ment of that rowdy in the House of Representatives; a man of firmness and energy of purpose, as witnessed by his course though the long, dark trials of esumption; a man who believes in at. esumption; a man who behaver office ending to the duties of whatever office entrusted with at the time the he is entrusted with at the time duties call; a man who is true to his political friends even through tirades, of abuse, as shown by his care of the much-abused Louisianians; a Republican from principal, and without a cloud on his record; in fact, a man who to-day by force of intellect, brains, energy, and by services to his country and party, has more real claim on the people and party than any other man in the country. Mr. Editor, I fully appreciate my avowed inability to do istice to Secretary John Sherman; and can only add that, for the reasons so poorly stated, I admire and respect im more than any man of our party AN EX-SOLDIEB AND A

LIFE-LONG REPUBLICAN. The above Communication to the Washington Sunday Chronicle is so ex-

POLITICAL ITEMS.

Only 33 delegates of the Greenbackers canre together in Iowa to a state convention, and those few had a row. They decided not to put up any ticket.

It is now said that Gen. Talbot of Massachusetts will decline to run for Governor as the candidate of the Republicans, and that Gen. Devens, the resent Attorney General of the United States will be put in nomination. The friends of Gen. Butler have made overtures to the regular Democratic State Committee, the Chairman of which is Judge Abbott, asking them to join them in the Butler Convention to be held at Worcester. This the Abbott committee, unanimously declines to do and they voted to hold a State Convention of the regular line Democrate and place a full ticket in the field. Mr. Hamilton the Democratic candidate for Maryland is reported as saying : "There is unrest; there is discon-"There is unrest; there is discontent." The tax-payers are active, and are gaining strength every day. Then there are half a dozen State political organizations—the Independents in this city, the Temperance Party, the Local Optionists, and the Greenbackers, who, in Maryland, have the inflation manis in a very mild form—who are ready to unite with the tax-payers should a favorable opportunity offer. A coalition of the same tax-paying element with the Republicans in 1875 would have of the same tax-paying element the Republicans in 1875 would carried the State but for Democ carried the State but for Democratic fraudulent votes and more fraudulent counts, and such a fusion again is not impossible. A leader in whom all can have confidence appears to be all that is wanting for the formation of a reform wave before which the Ring power in the State shall be shattered. Among the prominent county leaders in the lax-payers more ment are the tax-payers movement are the Hon Allen Bowie Davis, of Howard County the Hon. Charles T. Cockey, of Cockeys ville, and Mr. Sands, editor of the American Farmer, of Baltimore County.

Gen. Grosvenori of Onio, on his way o Maine, gives the following version of affairs in Ohio:

groved that no man who had a right to the employment of such officers was absolutely necessary on account of flarelections: that their services ma years; that the reputation of the men employed as Deputy Marshals was in general good, and that the few exceptions were ceptions were men who compared favorably with the Democratic Police force; that the Deputy Marshals carefully obeyed instructions and neither held tickets nor electionered at the polls.

Col. Blanton Ducan of Louisville Kentucky, is up in Maine stumping. He is a Greenbacker now, and proch much to the annoyance of the Pittsburg men that the Democratic party is played out and wont be heard of after this year. He says" there is in the south a large and growing conservative sentiment that detests the doctrine of state sovereignty and spells 'nation' with as big an 'N' as any people in this land." Why," said Col. Duncan, " the stories of outrage and murder of these black people have never yet been half told, painful as the pictures are that have been drawn. Much as the Southern Bourbons may try, they cannot blot out the fact that the exodus is the result of political and business slavery of the blacks. I have," he added, "a plantation in Bolivar County, Miss., and am, therefore, competent, by association and education, to deal with this question knowingly. Next winter I intend to lecture upon the negro exodus, its causes and consequences, and shall tell some facts about the present condition of the blacks and their treatment by the Southern Bourbons that will be of very great interest." Blanton declares that the Democratic and Republican party are both dead and that there is nothing left but the Greenback-

July 27, 1879. I am dis gusted and disheartened .-Everything under heaven seem to work agin the Democracy, and make a continyooal success impossible. We succeeded in electin a Dimocratic Congris. the people hevin tired of Republikin rool, and it did seem to me that there wuz nothin the way of a continyooance thereof, for an indefinit period. I looked confidently forrerd to the Postoffice at the Corners, and reely expected that I shood end my days holdin that Commishn and spendin the salary pleasantly and cheerfully at Bascom's.

In the fust place we wuz shoor that Sherman's resumpshen wood cause widespred disaster, wich the people wood charge to the akkount uv the Republikin party, and wood bring the Nashnel's over to us, younitin both parties agin the common foe, and that after that everything wood be plain sailin. We could sweep the kentry like a tornado, leevin nary greesse spot

Them words give me hope and I watched the crop reports with intense anxiety, and I daily sighed like Jeremiagh the great lamenter.

Oh! that the frost would strike the corn in the blade, and the cowcumbers on the vine!

Oh! that the fruit would perish in the bud, and the scab wood git among the sheep!

There wuz no cut worm, no frost, no hog-cholera, no murrain, no nothin. I hed some hope wunst, when I heard the weevil and Hessian fly hed appeared in the wheat in Illinois, but my soul sunk when the report was pronounced unfounded. The wheat is averagin 30 bushels to the akre, it is sellin for a dollar or thereabouts, and the money

During the Mexican war, Barry was associated with John B. Magruder, then a lieutenant, and afterwards a general in the Confederate service. Magruder was distinguished for the ease with which he spent his money, and the difficulty he had in getting it. He approached the sutler one day in June, 1846, asking with his inimitable hisp: "Would you be so kind as to cash my pay accounts for September?" The sutler explained that he didn't have the money, but thought he could raise it for him, as it was only three months ahead. "Oh," said Magruder carelessly, "its my pay accounts for September, 1847, that I want to get cashed!" To the last, Barry was faithful, modest, brave, and uncomplaining. He fairly represented that old school of August 14 1879. The revival which has been in progress for the past five weeks, or more at the M. E. Church, under the directs ion of Rev. Mr. Mc Pherson and Lady, assisted by Elder Burkhead, and Rev. one hundred, and forty of which have

J. W. Wiley, Capt. Potter, and others, has resulted in the profession of over attached; themselves to the Church .-No revival has ever occured in this vicinity of so protracted a nature, and so devoid of that usual excitement formally attendant upon revivals; on the reverse, there appeared to be a deep seated feeling among all classes, saint as well as sinner, and the effects more very visible in all directions, through out town, among all classes and conditions of society. The bar rooms were visited, and in some fervent prayer was offered up that the sparkling home might cease to flow, and that the mans ipulators of the unknown condiments of said bowl would seek salvation. The work is going on as yet and there is to telling when it will end, a revival has also been in progress at the Bap-tist Church under the Rev. agitating the question of throwing up their licenses as retailers in view of the late action of the Board of County Commissioners, at their last Session. Several-weeks ago they paid an order, that the retailers, should pay the same county tax as last year paying to the state the five per cent five per month; under this order they went to work at the last session of the Board at the instigation of the county money, they revoked the former order. They also leviod twenty five cents more on the do. It is a query in the minds of some of the tax payers if this extra action of the tax payers if this extra action of the board and extra tax may not be a necessity to meet the payment of the extraordinary tax of five hundred dellers to pay the foes of an attorney to dollars to pay the fees of an attorney to muddle up things. The two years Republican rule requires no such outlay, and not one cent was expended for a gentleman to travel up and down the Cape Fear on pleasure trips. Says the Ashboro Courier: Standing in a cornfield near Brown's X Roads, in this county, is an old dilapidated building, presenting no marked appearance. It is the old Randolph Court House and form its diminutive size House, and from its diminutive size one would not be so credulous as to believe anything of much notoriety having occurred in that small house. In this small building Andrew Jackson delivered his maiden speech, and commenced the foundation of his greatness, which afterwards electrified the whole American people. At that time, known to but few, his eventful career began.

Once upon a time, a long time ago, a sachem of the Tuscaroras visited Governor Tryon. He was very ill with mumps during his visit and was carefully cared for by the Governor. There was a heavy rain storm on Tuesday night. On Wednesday morning an extraordinary spectacle was presented on the Long Ridge road, at the reservoir of the Bethel Water Company. The road and the banks thereof, for a distance of eighty rods, swarmed with young frogs. They were hardly an inch in length. They were in constant motion, and yet so immense in number as to be unable to get out of the may of passing teams. The ground as it as the eye could reach was covered ith them. county poor house. He leaves a will and gives a fine estate to his former slaves, consisting of cash on hand, solvent papers and land to the value of $12,000 to $20,000. It is said that his neighbors know of his having received much more money since the war than has been found in his possesson and are sure it was never used by Him. Some think $15,000 or $20,000 in gold was buried by him that will perhaps never be found.

Gen. Barry used to tell how the first salute, after sundown, was fired at Fortress Monroe. It was in 1841, three years after his graduation at the Military Academy, and when he was a humble subaltern of artillery. John Tyler was then President of the United States, and had been down the bay on a fishing excursion. As the fish did not bite very well he had got "over the" a fishing excursion. As the fish did not bite very well he had got "over the bay" some little distance in his futile be beld under the auspices of the efforts to catch them. Says the Ashboro Courier: Standing in a cornfield near Brown's X Roads. "Excuse me, sir," answered the soldier,
"but it is past sundown." "Sandown be hanged," rejoined Tyler. "I am
Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, and I order you to fire a salute to the President of the United States."
Respectfully touching his cap, the old commandant withdrew without another word, and coming back to where Barry stood, he directed him to get out the battery and superintend the salute. Then he said in pitiable, quavering tones: "I have been in the Army for years, my boy, and I never disobeyed the regulations before, and I am forced to do it now and the men who can to do it now, and the man who com-mands it is President of the United States!" and with that the veteran, who would gladly have faced death without flinching, burst into tears.

> In common with all other officers who served under the late Albert Sidney Johnston in Utah, Gen. Barry held that distinguished southerner in very high respect. It was his belief that if Johnston had lived, the war for the Union would have been prolonged, and the Confederates would have gained more success. Probably the belief is erroneous, but it was generally enter-tained. Gen. Johnston a strict disciplinarian, but he was the a conscientious man. He found in the pocket of it a letter which some time during the previous autumn he had received from his Surgeon with the request that he would mail it. He had taken it to the station, forgotten to mail it, and had thought no more about it for six months. After apologizing to the Surgeon, the General sent for the delinquent Captain saying: "I beg your pardon for reproving you for an offence in which I myself set the example." The Captain was William F. Barry.
